

Doyle Construction Inc.:
Named One of the 50 Fastest-Growing Private Firms in Silicon Valley

SAN JOSE, Calif. (Sept. 21, 2006) -- Doyle Construction Inc. (DCI), one of the leading commercial construction firms in the Bay Area, has been named one of 50 fastest-growing private companies in Silicon Valley by the Silicon Valley/San Jose Business Journal for the second year in a row.

Each year the Silicon Valley/San Jose Business Journal compiles its "Fast 50" list, an annual ranking of the fastest-growing companies in Silicon Valley based on revenue growth from 2003 to 2005. In 2006, DCI was ranked number five with 560 percent revenue growth from 2003 to 2005, and revenues in 2005 of $7.15 million.

DCI first drew attention from the Silicon Valley/San Jose Business Journal in 2005 when the publication named DCI to its "Fast 50" roster as the fifth fastest-growing private firm in the area.

"This kind of recognition by a prestigious publication like the Business Journal tells us that we're doing something right," said David Doyle, president and CEO of DCI. "We've been able to accomplish this by maintaining successful relationships with our clients and providing them unparalleled customer service."

The Business Journal honored members of the 2006 "Fast 50" list at a celebration dinner at the Hyatt Regency Santa Clara on Sept. 21, 2006. The "Fast 50" list was published in the Sept. 22, 2006, issue of the Business Journal.
